Job Description by Amaya Sharpe, Director: Amaya Sharpe

SUMMARY: Olivia is looking for a fresh start after her husband's death. During what seems like an ordinary job interview, she begins to realize that the people interviewing her know more about her past than they should. As the pressure builds, Olivia's secrets begin to come to light, turning a simple job interview into something much more mysterious.

Olivia Thompson -A recently widowed woman trying to start over and find a normal job. Guarded, nervous, and determined to keep her past hidden.

Mr. Parker (Peter Parker) -A young, awkward, and nervous receptionist who is ready to quit his job. Sarcastic and surprisingly observant.

Mrs. Harrison -An older, no-nonsense interviewer and Parker's boss. Calm, controlled, and seemingly more aware of Olivia's past than she lets on.

The Worker by Walter Wykes, Director: Zane Rodriguez

SUMMARY: An absurdist dark comedy where a man is burdened with a drastic increase of additional responsibilities from his job. Despite the woman (whom he lives with) wishing to start a family and raise a child with him, the man cannot risk showing dedication to anything outside of his career. By doing so, the company will question the man's loyalty. And the company will find out!

MAN - Male-presenting, early 20s–late 20s

WOMAN - Female-presenting, early 20s–late 20s

MESSENGER - early 20s–mid 60s- Appears briefly during the play's climax.
